

Topic 4.1: Implementing the right to water and sanitation for improved access

Macarena

The right to water and sanitation (RTWS) is an entitlement held by all human beings that is solidly anchored in international human rights law. For this right to be truly meaningful, its recognition must result in improved access to water and sanitation, particularly for the poor and vulnerable, and those in conflict situations.

COHRE, FAN, WaterAid, UN-HABITAT, OHCHR, UNESCO Etxea and Action Contre le Faim use Topic 4.1 in the 5th World Water Forum to explore the use of RTWS and its contribution to improving access.

Tuesday March 17

Session 4.1.1: From right to reality – good government practices for implementing the right to water and sanitation

Time: 9.00 – 13.00

Place: Sutluce Congress and Culture Centre/A Block

Convenor: Centre on Housing Rights and Evictions (COHRE)/Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR)/UNESCO Etxea

Panelists

Lucinda O'Hanlon, OHCHR

Francois Muenger, SDC

Roger Aertgeerts, WHO

Mr. Sabin Intxaurreaga, Basque Water Agency (URA)

Objective

This session will present and facilitate informed discussion on examples of good practices by governments for the implementation of the right to water and sanitation. The focus of the session will be on steps governments have taken to realise the key elements of the right – availability, physical accessibility, affordability, accountability, non-discrimination, participation and access to information.

Tuesday March 17

Session 4.1.2: Rights in action – sharing experiences in how civil society utilises RTWS as a tool to improve access for the poor and marginalised

Time: 14.30 – 16.30

Place: Sutluce Congress and Culture Centre/A Block

Convenor: Freshwater Action Network (FAN)

Moderator: Clarissa Brocklehurst, Chief, Water, Sanitation and Hygiene, UNICEF

Presenters:

Representative of Government of Laos
Rose George, Author, The Big Necessity: The Unmentionable World of Human Waste and Why It Matters

Objective

In the International Year of Sanitation the issue of sanitation as a human right has attracted much attention. The session will begin to explore the limits of the right to sanitation; what are the obligations of governments in regard to sanitation, where have human rights been used to help realize the right to sanitation, either by government or civil society and how can the right to sanitation be integrated into development partner/donor policy?

Wednesday March 18

Session 4.1.4: Rights-based approach in emergencies: limits and opportunities

Time: 8.30 – 10.30

Place: Sutluce Congress and Culture Centre/A Block

Convenor: Action against Hunger France

Moderator: Jean Lapegue, Action against Hunger France

Presenters

Cyril Laucci, ICRC
Fuad Bateh, Adam Smith International, consultant for the Palestine Liberation Organisation
Lara El Jazairi, COHRE, Palestine
Jakaranda Neptune, MINUSTAH, Haiti

Panelists:

Mara Tignino, University of Geneva
Arab League
Abulkarim Jouada, UNRWA, Palestine
Aboubacri Mbodji, CODESEN, RADDHO, Senegal

Objective

So far, discussions on the right to water and sanitation have focused on development situations and on the chronically underserved, with little attention being paid to emergency situations. This session will consider the value that a human rights-based approach can add to emergency response both in terms of advocacy and field activities, and in making the transition from response to long-term rehabilitation and development. It will consider what steps are needed for the humanitarian sector to better entrench human rights.

Wednesday March 18

Session 4.1.5: Wrap-up – implementing RTWS for improved access

Time: 11.00 – 13.00

Place: Sutluce Congress and Culture Centre/A Block

Convenors: COHRE, FAN, WaterAid, UN-HABITAT, OHCHR, UNESCO Etxea and Action Contre le Faim

Objective

During the wrap-up session there will be two panels. The first will feedback on the previous four topic sessions, and the second will move on to where we should be going: Conclusions, Recommendations and Challenges. The panels will be representative of the various regions and stakeholders groups, bringing a range of experiences and recommendations.

Find FAN at the Water Fair. The exhibition stall will showcase the initiatives of members of Freshwater Action Network. Visitors will see how civil society organisations are responding to local issues through innovative solutions. Experienced development practitioners from civil society organisations will staff the stall to talk to interested visitors.
