BLUE PLANET

Berlin Water Dialogues

On 20-21 January 2012, the second Berlin Water Dialogues will take place in conjunction with INTERNATIONAL GREEN WEEK BERLIN and its political opening, the Global Forum for Food and Agriculture (GFFA).

The Berlin Water Dialogues 2012 will offer a one-day interactive conference format for international representatives of industry and research as well as politicians and government officials.

The meeting will address the significance of the links between water resources and food security and provide the opportunity to exchange ideas during discussion rounds and an evening event. Registration includes access to the trade fair, its opening ceremony and the International Agriculture Ministers' Panel Discussion on 21 January.

Registration Fee: € 150,- (incl. VAT)
